

304 The American City Summer 2007

The American City takes an interdisciplinary approach to the history, culture, problems and future of urban areas by investigating specific icons of American urbanism including The World's Fair of 1893, Rockefeller Center, Levittown, Los Angeles, and Atlantic City. The course will also trace the progression of urbanism in America by examining how urban areas are portrayed in literature, art and media. Expect this to include Sex in the City, The Wire, Gangs of New York, Menace to Society and various Hip-Hop artists. The course will also include one field trip to New York City.
