

050:281

America as a Business Civilization I

In this course we will explore what makes American business uniquely American. Topics covered include: the roots of American entrepreneurship, the relationship between democracy and capitalism, business as a force for social change, business ethics, and the personal price one pays for success. Classes include lecture, discussion and film clips. Students have an opportunity to submit a creative writing assignment.